PROGRAM LISTING

Events for People with Disabilities

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 16, 2014 – Community Music School offers adaptive one-on-one lessons in piano, voice, guitar, flute and drums for people of all ages with disabilities. The School also offers one-on-one music therapy sessions for people of all ages with a variety of diagnoses, such as neurological disorders, developmental disabilities, traumatic brain injury, dementia, personality disorders and depression. During the spring season, music therapy group classes will be offered, using music to promote friendship and social skills among children ages 3-5 and ages 6-12. All lessons and classes are taught by a board-certified music therapist. Full program descriptions and fees are available at www.communitymusicbuffalo.org or (716) 884-4887.
